Welcome

On behalf of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, we would like to take this opportunity to welcome you to Gloucester County, New Jersey.

This publication is a showcase of Gloucester County's economic assets and natural resources that support its growing reputation as one of the most desirable regions for businesses to locate.

Aside from its strategic location and a strong partnership with the business community, Gloucester County offers developed transportation networks, well-planned infrastructure, development opportunities and proximity to capital markets.

Gloucester County has consistently been cited as one of the top areas of industry growth in the nation. Through strategic planning we maintain our record of business attraction, retention and job growth. In 2017, Gloucester County opened the Paulsboro Marine Terminal, the first deep-water port to be built on the Delaware River in 50 years. Gloucester County has always maintained a pro-business attitude while continuing to maintain the tranquil scenery through the county's successful farmland preservation program.

Gloucester County leaders realize that companies need good schools, hospitals, places of worship, and safe places for their families to relax and enjoy a superior quality of life—all of which are abundant within the community.

With its superb location, developable land and an excellent quality of life, Gloucester County is a premier business site. We are close to everything, yet far from it all. In the following pages you will discover why our beautiful county is unique and why you will want to join the growing Gloucester County community.

GLOUCESTER
COUNTY
NEW JERSEY

Gloucester County, New Jersey, has managed to balance agriculture, industry, commercial, and residential into a desirable area that families and businesses are calling home.

We are located close to the Philadelphia market and not too far from Atlantic City. As one of the fastest growing counties in the region, Gloucester County offers a network of new and improved highways, public transportation, excellent school systems, places of worship, and an abundance of county services. Gloucester County is indeed a vibrant, vigorous place to work and live.

This alluring county in the Delaware Valley is characterized by its superior location, which is within a day's drive of 40 percent of the U.S. population; rich colonial heritage; resplendent farmland and green spaces; strong and expanding educational system; large inventory of properties; a well-trained workforce; and a focused pro-business environment. Moreover, the cost of living in Gloucester County is lower than in most other major U.S. metro areas, and the county boasts one of the lowest property tax rates in New Jersey.

Rowan Boulevard

In short, Gloucester County encapsulates an ideal mix of opportunity and quality of life. That is the key advantage of being close to everything and far from it all.

Businesses within the county benefit from many outstanding geographic and community assets.

Situated midway between New York City and Washington, D.C., and seven miles outside Philadelphia, Gloucester County offers companies the ability to decrease their logistics costs and increase their distribution market. The riverfront county has ease of access to many major highways; several airports; national, regional and local railways; and multiple ports, including the recently opened Paulsboro Marine Terminal.

Gloucester County has always maintained a pro-business attitude, which is why the county is home to 21 business and industrial centers encompassing more than 6,000 acres, including the largest industrial park on the East Coast.

With ample development and redevelopment opportunities and an aggressively proactive Department of Economic Development and Improvement Authority, public-private partnerships thrive in Gloucester County.

A regional Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (CEDS) is updated annually and the goals are to develop a workforce to meet evolving needs of county employers, create attractive communities for employers and their families, and to support business attraction, expansion and retention.

Those efforts are helping to produce remarkable growth. Investment in everything from new products to new businesses to new developments within the county has been progressing at a steady pace for years. In fact, Rowan Boulevard, a $350 million project

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP: A Great Place to Live, Work and Raise a Family

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP is more than a fantastic place to live and work. It's a place where community is a central part of who we are.

- Largest township in Gloucester County
- Among the top-rated schools in the state
- Washington Lake Park rated "Best in Gloucester County"
- Access to Atlantic City Expressway
- 50,000 residents
- Over 900 registered businesses

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP is attracting residents and businesses from all over New Jersey because it has a lot to offer: great location, quality infrastructure and strong community spirit.

that broke ground in 2008, is close to completion, and the much-anticipated Paulsboro Marine Terminal officially opened in 2017.

In addition, employers will find a skilled and educated workforce here. Gloucester County is within one hour of nearly 100 accredited colleges and universities and has two acclaimed higher-learning institutions within its borders, both of which are investing millions in their facilities and programs.

Jersey Fresh

The county's workforce continues to evolve due to the partnerships established with the county's business community. The American Job Center of Gloucester County provides services to both job seekers and businesses; while the Gloucester County Workforce Development Board is developing a workforce system that ensures the local economy a skilled labor pool that meets the demands of the business community.

These services are more important than ever. Our region is projected to add 31,550 jobs and is expected to grow by 5.3 percent by 2024.

When it comes to development and infrastructure, the county goes above and beyond to get the job done, the right way.

As an example, the county collaborates with municipalities on their redevelopment and master plans to assure that the right growth is planned for the right areas. The county pays particular attention to zoning policies and enforcement to make sure that development occurs in a way that is consistent with the county's master plan for maintaining a desirable quality of life.

One indication of a community's well-being is population growth. Gloucester County's population is expected to increase by 87,829 by 2040, which is a whopping 30.5 percent. Woolwich Township alone is estimated to have a 127 percent increase in population by 2040.

In spite of the growth, Gloucester County has remained true to its roots in agribusiness, with more than 100 producing farms — including 10 for grape production for the county's blossoming wine industry. Gloucester County has preserved 17,700 acres of farmland and a total of 21,274 acres has been set aside for preservation within the county.

There is an abundance of industries that excel in Gloucester County. Food processing, agribusiness, chemical refining and processing, health care, logistics and other industries are all well-established, offering a broad variety of co-location and numerous job opportunities.

Among the leading and expanding industries is logistics, with numerous warehousing, distribution and manufacturing facilities, thanks to the easy access to road, rail, water and air transportation. In the last decade, Gloucester County has added over 10 million square feet of industrial space. It is also home to two Amazon fulfillment centers, which consist of over 1 million square feet and employ more than 1,500 employees. An anticipated third Amazon facility is on the horizon.

An important addition to this inventory is the Paulsboro Marine Terminal, the first new marine terminal facility built on the Delaware River in more than 50 years. This estimated $250 million, 190-acre project includes warehousing opportunities and will accommodate a range of export, import and domestic products and boasts one-day delivery to 100 million consumers. This facility gives the county another means of importing and exporting products.

Chemical refining and processing continue to be big business in the county, as well as food processing and distribution. In fact, Gloucester

County is a hub for food manufacturing: there are more than 650 food-related companies in the county — not including the agriculture, agri-tourism and wine industries — and four out of the 20 largest companies in the county are food processing businesses.

The Gloucester County Department of Economic Development's (GCDED) efforts in this field have earned the department the National Top 5 Award of Excellence in Food Processing award from Expansion Solutions Magazine in 2012 and 2013. The awards recognize economic development organizations that have shown exceptional progress and potential in the area of development by successfully recruiting, retaining and/or assisting growing businesses.

Fueling the Future of Gloucester County

with Compressed Natural Gas

South Jersey Gas is committed to expanding compressed natural gas (CNG) fueling sites across South Jersey. With eight public fueling stations open now, and more on the way, we are excited about the role natural gas is playing as a reliable, cost-effective and environmentally friendly vehicle fuel source.

In 2014, Gloucester County had the largest increase of tourism growth in the state of New Jersey. Wineries, breweries, theaters, and local produce are some of the reasons the county experienced this growth in tourism. The Edelman Fossil Park at Rowan University is becoming a world-class tourism destination for STEM education and academic research. Since 2012, more than 15,000 people visited the facility to dig for fossils.

Healthy growth is also evident in health care.

Medical services and facilities in Gloucester County are always getting better. Recent developments include Inspira breaking ground on a new $349 million state-of-the-art hospital with 204 rooms that should be completed in 2019; Kennedy Health merging with Thomas Jefferson University and Jefferson Health in Philadelphia and creating a 13-hospital network that will continue expansion in Gloucester County with a $225 million construction project at their Washington Township location; and Nemours duPont Pediatrics, which built a 63,500-square-foot pediatric outpatient facility in Deptford.

The diversity does not end there. The county is attracting a number of high-tech industries and has an incubator facility to give startup technology companies laboratory space and class A office space to get their ideas off the ground.

Small business is also big business here, making up 93 percent of all businesses in the county. In 2014, Gloucester County started a Small Business Revolving Loan Fund. In 2017, the fund partnered with the Pascale Sykes Foundation, CBAC, and New Jersey Community Capital to lend over $3.5 million to small business owners in Gloucester County. The GCDED offers assistance, networking, referrals, and small business summits in partnership with the Gloucester County Chamber of Commerce. Additionally, the Rutgers Small Business Development Center (SBDC) provides free counseling from the GCDED office. Also, Gloucester County along with the Gloucester County Chamber sponsors the "Best Of" event annually to spotlight small business owners within the county.

Excellent quality of life. Exemplary workforce.
Exceptional business environment. Extraordinary opportunity.

Close to everything and far from it all,
Gloucester County is the place to be for your business!

With an optimal mix of opportunity and assistance, Gloucester County is the place for business in southern New Jersey and the customer-rich Philadelphia/New York/Wilmington metro markets.

GLoucester COUNTY NEW JERSEY

Accordingly, many major projects are under way in the county, where businesses and developers are bolstered by supportive local economic development agencies and numerous incentives.

Gloucester County has a coveted Aa2 Moody rating, a reflection of its substantial tax base, healthy reserves and affordable debt burden. The county benefits from strong financial management and routinely prepares five-year projections to help prevent spikes in property taxes.

The GCDED also works with the Small Business Administration, the Gloucester County Improvement Authority and local banks to help individuals, businesses and organizations to secure necessary financing to start a business or expand existing operations. Small and large businesses alike will find an array of financing programs suited to their needs, and GCDED personnel serve to assist businesses in navigating the maze of options.

With multiple groundbreaking projects under way, development is thriving in Gloucester County.

The Paulsboro Marine Terminal, the eagerly anticipated, 190-acre expansion project by the South Jersey Port Corp, began port operations on March 2, 2017, and is the first new general-cargo marine terminal constructed on the Delaware River in more than 50 years. Phase 1 of the terminal project included an 850-foot marginal berth, state-of-the-art on-terminal rail, and a dedicated roadway and bridge link to Interstate 295. The project was also bolstered by a multimillion-dollar federal grant for rail improvements. Phase 2 has commenced, which will add two new marginal berths, a barge berth, additional on-terminal rail, and terminal upland improvements. At full build-out, public and private investment at the Paulsboro Marine Terminal will exceed $350 million.

Likewise, the county is seeing historic levels of investment in its education infrastructure.

At Rowan College of Gloucester County (RCGC), construction is currently underway on a new 18,627-square-foot Math and Academic Center and an expansion to the Scott Hall STEM Center, bringing the total to 16 buildings on RCGC's campus. The new Math and Academic Center represents an investment of $7 million as the school continues to invest in Gloucester County and its residents.

In 2014, RCGC (formerly Gloucester County College) entered into a premier partnership with Rowan University — the first-of-its-kind in New Jersey — closely aligning the two institutions to make higher education opportunities more accessible and affordable to students in New Jersey. The college awards both certificate and associate degrees, leading to immediate career and transfer opportunities. Last year, RCGC's nursing and computer graphic arts programs were ranked #1 in the state. The college's Workforce and Professional Development Institute provides career training, personal enrichment courses and outreach programs to community residents.

In 2017, Rowan University was designated as a national research university. Recently ranked 171 of 311 national institutions, Rowan prides itself in fostering research that focuses on practical solutions and staying committed to undergraduate education. Rowan has grown by 7,000 students in the past six years — enrollment is 18,500 students. In addition to its nationally ranked engineering program, Rowan has two medical schools — one of only two institutions nationwide that offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs.

Because of its strong economic development strategy, the county has been able to assist with the revitalization and repurposing of various sites in the county through redevelopment and Brownfield repurposing:

- Atrium Post-Acute Care of Woodbury — Atrium Health and Senior Living opened a new post-acute care facility in 2016. The center was built on the former site of the Woodbury Country Club, which closed in 2009. It has 124 private rooms for short-term rehabilitation. Other parts of the center include a 70-bed memory care unit, a 60-bed long-term nursing facility, two cul de sac developments with 20 single-family homes, and 15 acres of public access space. All three phases of the site are expected to be completed by 2019. The developer, Burris Construction Co. of Moorestown, N.J., purchased the site from Parke Bank for $3.2 million in 2014.
- Meredith Farms in Franklin Township — Plans are moving forward to actively market this more than 50-acre site on Route 40, a former poultry processing plant that was abandoned in 1999 by its previous owner. To date, nearly $3 million has been invested at the site, enabling the township to develop the infrastructure, demolish existing structures, and remediate and market the property.
- Struthers Dunn in Mantua Township — $1.8 million has been invested by the state, Gloucester County and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to remediate this 13-acre brownfield. The property is now ready for new development.
- Total Turf Experience in Mantua — Located adjacent to the Struthers Dunn property, this 22-acre site is another redevelopment project that has transformed a brownfield property.

Today, it is a premier sports complex with six professional-style indoor sports fields as well as outdoor athletics fields and 5 acres of parking. The site was developed at a cost of $6.8 million and includes a sports medicine facility, sporting goods store and a restaurant.

In 2017, the sports complex is in the process of expanding its facilities by increasing the amount of parking and constructing a 45,000-square-foot building for soccer, basketball, volleyball, pickleball and dance.

- Riverwinds Phase 2 — A redevelopment project in West Deptford comprised of four parcels of ground that have potential for uses associated with recreation, retail, entertainment, and housing.
- Former DuPont Repauno works in Greenwich — Located along the Delaware River, the project entails redevelopment of a former industrial facility with multi-functional berths being converted into a single berth, deep-water marine terminal and logistics facility.
- Jean & Ric Edelman Fossil Park at Rowan University — Edelman's made a sizeable gift to Rowan University to convert the 65-acre fossil park from the Cretaceous Period into a world-class destination for scientific discovery and citizen science. The redevelopment project includes a museum, visitor's center, nature trail, paleontology-themed playground, and social spaces. Community and school dig days will continue at the site.
- Camp Salute in Clayton — a 76-unit veteran's preference affordable redevelopment project with 25 percent of the units set aside for disabled veterans. The facility will have trained veteran's advocates and also offer social services for the residents of the facility.

Gloucester County has a wealth of commercial real estate choices to house a broad spectrum of business operations, whether the need is for industrial, manufacturing, warehousing, distribution, office, or research and development space.

A location within the county assures companies of unbeatable highway and rail access and proximity to ports and airports — all crucial to commerce in today's global marketplace.

Often, location is the key difference between success and failure for a business. Given the fact that Gloucester County is a part of the greater Philadelphia market, yet less than 100 miles from the New York metro market, a business can hardly go wrong in locating here. Ports on the Delaware River, I-295, the New Jersey Turnpike, proximity to major airports in Philadelphia, Atlantic City and the New York metro area, wrap this location package up with a bow, a present for your business.

Education

GLOUCESTER
NEW JERSEY

Expanding programs, expanding facilities, expanding opportunities — this is higher education in Gloucester County! Here, you will find acclaimed and respected institutions of higher learning, and an established and evolving educational infrastructure that reflects local and regional business, professional and community needs.

Rowan University (www.rowan.edu) is a comprehensive, nationally ranked public research institution dedicated to excellent undergraduate education, with approximately 18,500 students between its main campus in Glassboro and facilities in Camden and Stratford. Recognized as a higher education leader and innovator, Rowan University is committed to increasing affordability and access to its programs and encouraging regional economic development.

The university is in the midst of a major transformation, attracting generous private support and collaborating with partners to develop new academic, research and residential facilities. Over the past seven years, the university has grown by 8,000 students, has seen $1.5 billion worth of construction and has plans for another $1.2 billion in construction to be completed over the next few years.

The university is also partnering with the borough of Glassboro and private developers on the $400 million Rowan Boulevard project, a mixed-use corridor that connects the main campus to Glassboro's historic downtown. Rowan Boulevard features market rate and student housing, a Barnes & Noble Collegiate Superstore and a Courtyard by Marriott, as well as retailers, restaurants and professional services.

While its Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering is ranked 19th in the country for undergraduate engineering, the university will see major growth in the health sciences, particularly as it relates to its two medical schools.

Rowan College at Gloucester County (www.rcgc.edu) is celebrating 50 years of student success! In collaboration with premier partner Rowan University, Rowan College at Gloucester County offers more pathways than ever to affordable and accessible higher education opportunities.

The college awards both certificates and associate degrees, leading to immediate career and transfer opportunities. Rowan College continues to offer students a variety of four-year degree options through seamless transfer agreements with university partners, including Rowan Choice and Rowan 3+1 in partnership with Rowan University, in addition to an extensive listing of articulation agreements for students pursuing baccalaureate and master's degree programs. Students also have the option to complete advanced degrees without leaving the Rowan College campus through partnership agreements with Rowan University, Fairleigh Dickinson University and Wilmington University.

Rowan College is a publicly supported, co-educational two-year institution, fully accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education. Enrollment for Fall 2017 was 7,158 students. The college offers more than 70 academic programs in a full spectrum of career fields. A number of selective admission programs related to the allied-health field, including nursing, diagnostic medical sonography and nuclear medicine technology are available.

Rowan College also maintains a well-rounded cultural, artistic and sports calendar of events. In addition, the college's Workforce and Professional Development Institute provides numerous educational, career training and personal enrichment courses as well as outreach programs to community residents.

Many advantageous services and incentive programs are available to employers through the Gloucester County Department of Economic Development (GCDED) and the county's Workforce Development Board (WDB).

Training Services: Free computer training, basic skills training, customer service training, and other training opportunities are offered through Rowan College at Gloucester County.

Hiring Incentives: Through our on-the-job training (OJT) incentives, businesses can train workers for available positions and receive reimbursement for training expenses. These programs provide jobseekers employment and training opportunities and employers qualified workers for their businesses.

Free Job Postings: Available through New Jersey Career Connections, the OnRamp link allows employers to post job opportunities and have candidates prescreened — for free.

Talent Networks: The state Talent Networks play an active role in connecting jobseekers and employers. Talent Networks create partnerships with employers, educators and workforce development professionals to strengthen the workforce for key industries in the state. Network partners identify skills gaps and design educational and training programs to address them.

Business Retention: Business retention is a top priority of the Gloucester County Workforce Development Board. WDB staff is directly involved in retention efforts on a daily basis and provide support, information, ideas and resources. In addition, Talent Network representatives have become integral partners in the county's business attraction and retention efforts.

Gloucester County is not only “close to everything.” Its exceptional transportation network puts nearly everything within easy reach — and it’s only getting better. Halfway between New York City and Washington, D.C., Gloucester County’s strategic location allows businesses to reach 40 percent of the nation’s population within one day.

NEW JERSEY

ROADS

Trucking is the most prominent freight mode, with an estimated 520,000 miles logged on Gloucester County roadways on an average day, according to the Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission.

Running parallel to the region’s vital waterway — the Delaware River — is Interstate 295, a busy 74-mile stretch between Trenton, and Wilmington, Delaware, and the New Jersey Turnpike. Other important thoroughfares include Route 42 and the Atlantic City Expressway — which traverse east-west — as well as U.S. Routes 130 and 322 and state Routes 45, 47, 77, 44, 41 and 55.

RAIL

Railroads are another important facet in the county’s transportation network. Freight transportation is provided along the more than 60 miles of rail within Gloucester County, which are served by CSX, Norfolk Southern, Conrail, SMS and a short line railway owned by neighboring Salem County.

WATER

Gloucester County also offers ease of transportation via water. The Delaware River has long served the county and surrounding communities in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, with several port facilities along its shores, including the South Jersey Port Corp., the Salem Port Authority, the Delaware River Port Authority and the Port of Wilmington, Delaware.

The Paulsboro Marine Terminal, administered by the South Jersey Port Corp. and operated by Holt Logistics, LLC, is the first new marine terminal on the Delaware River in more than a half century. It provides 1,500 linear feet of deepwater berths and includes warehouse space and an access overpass connecting the terminal to I-295. The estimated $274 million project opened in March of 2017, although ongoing improvements are being made to the facility continuously.

AIR

Gloucester County is 15 minutes away from the Philadelphia International Airport, where 30 airlines offer more than 550 daily departures to 128 cities, including more than 80 nonstop flights to 40 international destinations.

The Atlantic City International Airport conducts commercial and general aviation operations, offering air travel to support commerce, tourism and the general public. The airport is managed by the South Jersey Transportation Authority and can accommodate more than 3 million passengers a year.

Wilmington Airport and Newark Liberty International are also nearby, as is Cross Keys Airport, a small commuter airport facility in Williamstown, Gloucester County. The privately owned Southern Cross Airport, also near Williamstown, is a small, public-use airport.

TRANSIT

Public transit is also readily accessible in the county. NJ Transit connects to Philadelphia via PATCO, a light rail service between Center City Philadelphia and Lindenwold, N.J.

PATCO and the Delaware River and Port Authority are pursuing a new passenger rail line between Glassboro and Camden that could carry an estimated 18,000 riders daily by 2030. The proposed 18-mile corridor, which is along an existing railroad right of way used by Conrail for freight service, would include about 14 new stations, mostly within Gloucester County. Known as the Glassboro-Camden Line (GCL), the entity is expected to issue an environmental impact statement in the spring of 2018 and receive final approval to begin construction of the project in the fall of 2018.

NJ Transit also manages and maintains public bus transportation throughout Gloucester County. The South Jersey Transit Authority (SJTA) through its Cross County Connection operates the Pureland East West Community Shuttle. This program provides regular weekday transportation services from the Pureland Industrial Complex through the heart of Gloucester County, with stops in Swedesboro, Mullica Hill, Glassboro, Williamstown, and terminating at the Avandale Park and Ride.

Living in Gloucester County means having so many community amenities so close to home.

The crown jewels are the county's four parks, each with its own distinctive features and all overseen by the Gloucester County Parks and Recreation Department. The largest is the more than 1,000-acre Scotland Run Park, offering boating, a nature center, fishing and more. The centerpiece of Greenwich Lake Park is a 40-acre lake stocked twice a year with trout. The family-friendly James G. Atkinson Memorial Park is equipped with 66 acres of developed recreation areas. Finally, the riverside Red Bank Battlefield Park includes the remains of Fort Mercer, the site of a Revolutionary War battle; and the historic James and Ann Whitall House, which is open for tours and hosts special events. The house, built in 1748, exudes 18th century Georgian architecture and was occupied by the Whitall family for 114 years.

Gloucester County also owns and operates the 18-hole Pitman Golf Course, a hometown classic with a full-service clubhouse restaurant and bar.

Another shining example of Gloucester County's sense of community is its veterans' clinic in Sewell. The county is committed to honoring and caring for its servicemen and women through the Gloucester County VA Health Clinic, which has been expanded by the county three times. The building houses a full-time office as well as the Gloucester County Office of Veterans Affairs.

Another service to the community is the Gloucester County Library System (www.gcls.org), servicing more than 84,000 residents in 14 of Gloucester County's municipalities through five branches and one independent association library. In 2016, the system recorded about 387,925 patron visits and circulated more than 439,000 items.

Gloucester County’s utility providers deliver quality, reliable service to business, industry and residents, with a focus on efficiency, new and green technology, and affordability.

Atlantic City Electric (ACE) (www.atlanticcityelectric.com), a public utility owned by Exelon and Pepco Holdings Inc. provides safe, reliable and affordable regulated electric delivery services to about 91,000 customers in Gloucester County. ACE serves approximately 547,000 customers in a 2,700-square-mile territory in eight counties in southern New Jersey.

ACE has provided its customers safe and reliable electric service for more than a hundred years and is committed to ensuring that its customers continue to receive the highest quality service available. ACE’s mission is to conduct its business responsibly and in a manner designed to protect the health and safety of its employees, customers, the general public and the environment.

South Jersey Gas (SJG) (www.southjerseygas.com) provides natural gas service to customers in 113 municipalities, spanning 2,500 square miles. The company, which is the principal subsidiary of South Jersey Industries, serves more than 381,000 customers in Atlantic, Cape May, Cumberland and Salem counties and significant portions of Gloucester, Burlington and Camden counties.

Public Service Electric and Gas, or PSE&G, is one of the largest combined electric and gas companies in the United States and is New Jersey’s oldest and largest publicly owned utility.

PSE&G serves 1.8 million gas customers and 2.2 million electric customers in more than 300 urban, suburban and rural communities, including New Jersey’s six largest cities. About 50,000 PSE&G customers are in Gloucester County.

Portions of the county are served by New Jersey American Water, a wholly owned subsidiary of American Water. The utility serves customers in Harrison, Logan, and parts of East Greenwich and Woolwich, and sells bulk water to Deptford, East Greenwich, Elk, Glassboro, Mantua, National Park, Pitman, West Deptford, Woodbury and Woodbury Heights.

neurosurgery program. The hospital, located in Turnersville, also offers acute-care inpatient services; an Emergency Department with 24-hour pediatric coverage; a maternity center; and Gloucester County's only neonatal intensive care unit (NICU).

The hospital is also home to Jefferson's Robotic Surgery program and is the centerpiece of the Washington Township campus, which also includes the Sidney Kimmel Cancer Center in Washington Township, home of the Comprehensive Breast Center and the Lung Nodule Center.

Other services located on the Washington Township campus include a free-standing surgery center; a long-term care facility with a sub-acute unit; a dialysis center; a wound care center; a diagnostic medical imaging center; family health services; and a Kennedy Health Alliance medical practice. In addition, Kennedy is the principal teaching affiliate of Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine (RowanSOM).

Plans are currently in the development phase for two major construction projects on the Jefferson Health New Jersey Washington Township campus, both aimed at enhancing services and improving the patient experience. These projects represent a more than $200 million investment in the community: an enclosed parking facility with 700 spaces and an 180,000-square-foot, multilevel patient tower with planned all-private patient rooms.

Inspira Health Network's (inspirahealthnetwork.org), commitment to improving the lives of Gloucester County residents continues to grow, as does its economic impact on the economy of the county and the greater South Jersey region. Inspira remains one of the county's largest employers, and, in May of 2016, broke ground on a new $350 million hospital in Mullica Hill. It will open in late 2019.

Inspira Health Network

With the November 2017 opening of Inspira Urgent Care Williamstown, the network now has six urgent care locations in the county. Inspira Medical Group's Family Medicine practice in Clarksboro opened in February 2017, marking its eighth family medicine practice within the county. Inspira Woodbury began providing robotic surgery in 2017 and recently launched a bariatric surgery program. The nationally accredited Cancer Services at Inspira Medical Center Woodbury is preparing to open a state-of-the-art radiation oncology center this year (2018).

Inspira Health Network is a charitable nonprofit health care organization comprised of three hospitals, a comprehensive cancer center, several multi-specialty health centers, and more than 150 service locations.

Together with its medical staff of more than 1,100 physicians and other care providers, as well as more than 5,600 employees, Inspira Health Network provides evidence-based care to help each patient achieve the best possible outcomes. Accredited by DNV Healthcare, the network is focused on providing quality care in a safe environment.

Virtua (www.virtua.org), a comprehensive, multi-hospital health care system headquartered in Marlton, N.J., offers programs of excellence in cancer treatment, cardiology, orthopedics, women's health, pediatrics, surgery, neuroscience and wellness.

A nonprofit organization, Virtua has a staff of 9,000 clinical and administrative personnel, approximately 500 physicians and participates in Virtua Physician Partners, a clinically integrated network of 1,000 physicians and other clinicians.

Virtua has a health and wellness center in Washington Township. This 256,000-square-foot, $31-million facility is centered on the one-stop concept for wellness, diagnosis, care and treatment. Community members can exercise, relax with a massage, eat a heart-healthy meal, and see their doctors and undergo tests or procedures all in a single visit, without ever leaving the center.

The Virtua Health and Wellness Center offers a fitness center with the latest exercise equipment, a 25-meter indoor lap pool, a cushioned jogging track, and group exercise and spinning studios. The facility also has a spa, café and child care services.

The center also includes physician offices, an urgent care center, a surgery center, and a high-risk pregnancy center offering the services of world-class maternal-fetal medicine specialists to care for women with high-risk pregnancies. Also offered are physical and occupational therapy, cardiac rehabilitation, radiation oncology, wound care, sports medicine, a sleep care center, and a center for nutrition and diabetes care.

Nemours duPont Pediatrics health system is a relative newcomer to Gloucester County, having opened in 2016 in a 65,000-square-foot facility. More than 60 new professional healthcare positions were created to operate 29 specialty clinic exam rooms, onsite medical imaging with X-ray and MRI, and the ambulatory outpatient surgery center that has two operating rooms.

Board-certified pediatric specialists and surgeons from the renowned Nemours/Alfred I. DuPont Hospital for Children in Wilmington, Del., come to the new Deptford location to provide convenient access to award-winning pediatric specialty care. Children from newborns to age 18 can receive specialty care consultations, outpatient surgery and follow-up care.

Virtua is a comprehensive, multi-hospital health care system.

More than 100 million people can't be wrong. That's how many people visited the Garden State in 2017 and it represented a 3.1 percent increase over the previous year, continuing New Jersey's impressive trend of year-over-year increases in tourism.

Gloucester County, with its growing number of attractions and events, is contributing more than its share of charisma because it had the second-highest increase (5.4 percent) in tourism direct sales among the state's 21 counties, 2017 over 2016. The increase for New Jersey as a whole was 2.8 percent.

Tourism now generates $42.9 billion in direct sales in New Jersey, and nearly a half-billion dollars in Gloucester County alone.

Dotted with woods and waterways, abundant with farmland and steeped in the nation's history, Gloucester County offers excellent parks, a rich heritage and leisure at its best.

The Delaware River Equestrian, Agriculture and Marine Park – better known as DREAM Park – is a premier equestrian facility located along the Delaware River in Logan Township. It is owned and operated by the Gloucester County Improvement Authority. This 277-acre park features a temperature-controlled indoor arena with bleacher seating for 600 spectators and a separate area for auctions, exhibits and instructional clinics. The facility has two barns to accommodate 238 horses; five outdoor rings, one of which has state-of-the-art lighting for night events; and designated parking for trailers and RVs. DREAM Park also has 70 resident stables, with three private warm-up and exercise rings.

For more information on the facility, please visit dreamparknj.com

Wide open, green and natural, the county has many other parks and outdoor recreation areas as well.

Gloucester County Parks and Recreation Department (www.co.gloucester.nj.us/depts/p/parks/default.asp) is responsible for the organization and development of the recreational environment in the county. These duties include overseeing exceptional park venues such as:

- Greenwich Lake Park
- Scotland Run Park
- James G. Atkinson Memorial Park
- Red Bank Battlefield Park
- Pitman Golf Course

Since a large part of Gloucester County is farmland, it's only fitting that the agricultural industry is a part of the county's tourism business. Dubbed "agri-tourism," local farms — large and small — encourage visitors to stop by, browse, take a tour or pick their own produce. More prominent among them are:

- Duffield's Farm Market
- Creamy Acres
- Amish Market at Mullica Hill
- Stoltzfus Amish Farm Market and Village Shoppes
- Heritage Vineyards
- Coda Rossa Winery
- Cedarvale Vineyard

Heritage Vineyards

Gloucester County is a popular destination for history buffs, thanks to the county's heritage. Gloucester has played a significant role in this country's history, dating back to before the Revolutionary War and is replete with interesting sites to visit:

- Red Bank Battlefield Park
- Fort Mercer
- James and Ann Whitall House
- Lighthouse at Tinicum
- C.A. Nothnagle Log Cabin
- Trinity Episcopal "Old Swedes" Church
- James G. Atkinson Old Stone House Village
- Hollybush mansion

Mullica Hill

Gloucester County is also home to several exciting and eagerly anticipated annual events:

- 18th Century Field Day at Red Bank Battlefield Park
- Gloucester County Water Fest
- A variety of local community fairs and festivals

Whitall House

Gloucester County also pays tribute to its history with several museums:

- Heritage Glass Museum
- South Jersey Museum of American History
- Hunter-Lawrence-Jessup House Museum

Of course, Gloucester County has many additional sites and attractions no matter what your interests or tastes for adventure crave. Detail on most of these attractions can be found on the Visit South Jersey web site, visitsouthjersey.com, the destination marketing organization charged with promoting tourism in the four counties of southern New Jersey, including Gloucester.

Jefferson Washington Township Hospital launches $200M expansion project

At Jefferson Washington Township Hospital, we're rebuilding the patient experience from the ground up, making expert care more personalized and accessible, where you need it most - close to home.

That's why we're planning a $200-million investment to revitalize our health care campus in Washington Township, home to acclaimed services and programs, including a 230-bed acute care hospital and our Cancer Center.

The first phase, slated to begin in 2018, will feature construction of a new, enclosed parking facility with 700 spaces. It will be followed by the construction of a seven-story hospital tower with all private patient rooms.

The project will not only transform the patient experience at Jefferson Health New Jersey's largest hospital campus, but will have a huge economic impact on our region – an estimated $273 million – including the creation of 1,500 jobs during the construction of the project.

At Jefferson Health New Jersey, we go to great lengths to bring our community life-changing, life-saving care. And with sophisticated treatments and technology, hard work, and expertise, we believe the future of health care starts right here in South Jersey.
